Your doctor contributes to research

The AMC hospital conducts research into the care of family doctors.

For this research, the AMC hospital works together with family doctors.

The hospital also works together with your family doctor.

The AMC hospital is doing this research to improve the care from family doctors.

Also the care to you!

The collaboration between the AMC hospital and the family doctors is called 'AHA'.

AHA is the Dutch abbreviation of Academic Family doctor network AMC.

In this brochure you can read about the collaboration and about the research.

Your doctor will provide data to the hospital

The AMC hospital receives data from many family doctors.

Your own family doctor also provides data to the hospital.

Your family doctor will provide the hospital with data about:

- The diseases of his patients
- The medications of his patients
- The results of examinations, for example of blood
- The treatments of his patients

Working together on better care

The hospital examines the data of many patients of many family doctors.

Afterwards the hospital tells the family doctors what she learned from the data.

The family doctors learn from this and improve their care to the people.

Your data remain private

Your family doctor will provide data of many patients to the hospital.

You are also a patient.

Your data will also go to the hospital.

Your family doctor does not give your name, address and 'citizen service number' to the hospital.

No one can see that these are your data.

This way the family doctor protects your private data.

Do you not want your family doctor to give your data to the hospital?

Tell it your family doctor!

Your family doctor will then not give your data to the hospital.

Your privacy is guaranteed

Working together on better healthcare

Do you want to know more?

You may still have questions, or you may want to know more.

You can ask your family doctor about your question.

You can also e-mail your question to the AHA.

The mail address of the AHA is:
huisartsennetwerk@amc.nl
